It all started as a hobby project but due to phenomenal feedback from pathologists, parents and children we've built a company that aims to simplify speech and language telepractice.

1. Therapists can choose from a rich video library, record their own instructions and track child's progress.
2. Parents download the app that engages their child into practicing on their smartphone or tablet.
3. Children open the app and mirror their therapist and other children. Role-playing and funny videos keep them engaged.
